

Forget milk, Got hats?

Winter is coming and Tera Avila has a mission on keeping people warm old school style. Her company entitled, "Abuelita's Chango" is here to keep you cold people nice and toasty with a little pizzazz! Abuelita is Spanish for Grandmother. Chango is Spanish for monkey. The name of her website came about because she adores her Abuelita and monkeys are cool. Abuelita's Chango began in 2002 as a venue to sell One Tough Monkey Hats and feature other items by local talent. All hats are 80% wool and 20% acrylic blend yarn, plus machine washable. She also sells fez's, scarves and coming soon tiki lamps! As you can tell Abuelita's Chango is a down-to-earth business with some flare to it.

Check out more designs by Tera Avila at www.abuelitaschango.com or you can reach Tera directly to tera\_avila@yahoo.com.